It all started with a chopping board.

Twin brothers, Antony and Richard Joseph, grew up in a family with a long history of design and manufacturing. Originally set up by their grandfather in the 1930s, the family business specialised in the production of glass components and the brothers spent part of their summers working in the factory.

In 1999, having both trained in product design, the twins embarked on their early careers. As a sideline to their jobs, and with the support of their father, they utilised the capabilities of the factory in Birmingham to develop their own range of contemporary glass chopping boards.

But what started out as a fun project soon became the seed of a new business idea. After early success with their bold, colourful designs their entrepreneurial spirit kicked in and, in 2003, the Joseph Joseph brand was born.

Whilst glass chopping boards were just the start, the brothers were also designing other innovative kitchenware products and this gradually developed into a broader range of housewares.

What quickly became a key foundation of the brand was a simple observation - many tasks around the home could be made much easier and more enjoyable with a little intelligent thinking. It was this problem-solving approach, and the ability to combine it with a distinctive design aesthetic, that created some of their most iconic kitchenware and has made Joseph Joseph one of the world's most progressive houseware brands.

There's something special about a Joseph Joseph product that sets it apart from the competition. First it engages you with its distinctive design; then it captivates you with its functional benefits; finally, it assures you with its high-quality materials and attention to detail.

Joseph Joseph's ability to blend innovative design, contemporary styling and a distinctive use of colour is unique within the industry. While many brands concentrate on just one of these aspects, Joseph Joseph focuses on the whole user experience - creating products that work beautifully and are a pleasure to have around the home.

Since 2003 the brand has expanded successfully into many product areas and it continues to explore new houseware categories. It may have all started with a simple glass chopping board, but Joseph Joseph is now one of the fastest growing companies in the worldwide housewares market and it continues to earn accolades and awards for its unique, innovative designs.

Cosmetics. Beautifully organised.

Whatever your skincare regime or the size of your cosmetics collection, all make-up lovers know it doesn't take much for your dressing table or bathroom shelf to become less beauty and more beast!

A plethora of lipsticks, brushes, eyeliner and mascaras - to name but a few essential items - in a variety of shapes and sizes, present a real challenge when trying to keep everything organised. And with the potential to create mess as well, from accidental spills and leaks, it's clear that very careful thought is needed when it comes to designing cosmetic storage.

As careful thought and intelligent, problem-solving design are our trademarks, we're delighted to introduce you to Viva, a brand-new range of beauty organisers with a stylish, premium aesthetic and lots of highly practical features.

The range comes in a beautiful soft-shell colourway that compliments a wide range of interior styles and includes a variety of organisers for different storage needs. There's even a smart compact mirror for those all-important make-up checks and touch-ups on the go.

There's never been a more important time to get the home in order and this new range helps you do just that by turning cosmetic chaos into beautiful organisation.
